Investment involves risks, including the loss of principal. The price of units or shares of the Funds may go up as well as down. Past performance is not indicative of future results. The value of the Funds can be extremely volatile and could go down substantially within a short period of time. You should read the Fund's Placing Memorandum or Explanatory Memorandum and Product Key Facts Statement for details, including risk factors. Investors should not base investment decisions on this marketing material alone. Please note:

- ChinaAMC Select RMB Bond Fund (the "Fund"), through the RQFII quota obtained by the Manager, invests primarily in RMB denominated fixed income securities issued or distributed in the PRC and may invest a small portion of its assets in PRC A-Shares.
- The Fund is subject to regulations which regulate investments by RQFIIs in the PRC which have just been announced and novel in nature. Any uncertainty and change to the relevant laws and regulations (such as PRC tax laws and repatriation policy) in the PRC may adversely impact the Fund.
- Investment in single country (the PRC) markets involves concentration and other risks not typically associated with investment in more developed economies or markets.
- Investment in RMB debt instruments in the PRC involves liquidity risk, credit risk, credit rating risk and downgrade risk. There may not be a liquid or active market for such RMB debt instruments; the Fund may also be exposed to credit/insolvency risk of issuers of the debt securities. As the credit ratings of the debt instruments of the Fund are largely assigned by the credit agencies in the PRC, the methodologies adopted by such local rating agencies may not be consistent with the international rating agencies. In the event of downgrading in the credit ratings of a debt instrument or its issuer, the Fund's investment value in such security may be adversely affected.
- Investment in the Fund is subject to interest rate risk. Change of macro-economic policies in the PRC such as monetary and fiscal policy may cause changes to market interest rates, affecting the pricing of bonds and thus the return of the Fund.
- The Fund is denominated and settled in RMB; subscription and redemption must be made in RMB. RMB is not freely convertible and is subject to exchange controls and restrictions. There is no guarantee that RMB will not depreciate. HKD Investors may suffer a loss if RMB depreciates against HKD or such other currencies.

▲ Investment Objective

The Fund seeks to achieve capital appreciation and income generation by principally (i.e. up to 100% of its net assets) investing in (i) RMB denominated fixed income instruments, including bonds, issued or distributed within the PRC which (a) are denominated and settled in RMB and (b) are traded on the interbank bond market or are traded or transferred on the exchange market in the PRC, and (ii) fixed income funds (including money market funds) approved by the China Securities Regulatory Commission ("CSRC") and offered to the public in the PRC*.

* Investment in fixed income funds approved by the CSRC which are offered to the public in the PRC will not exceed 10% of the net asset value of the Fund.

Fund Factsheet

▲ Manager's Comment

China's bond market seems to dismiss the solid social finance data of Feb and choose to brace the sub-par manufacturing PMI data. The long end of the yield curve cannot stop falling. By the early March, 30Y and 10Y Chinese treasuries have printed new lows in their yields respectively. The short end of the yield curve, however, has held up well, resulting in a super flat yield curve. While it's plausible that the fund flows from the falling equity market caused the initial move of the long-term Chinese treasuries in Jan, the fact that the yields have kept its trend for so long, even after the equity market's fall has been arrested by the government's action in Feb, tells something about the bond market's expectation of the economy. The expectation could well be wrong, but so long as it stands investors should follow and trade it.

The much-anticipated 3rd plenary session of the CPC Central Committee is still elusive. Its timing has become unconventional. As a result, its agenda could be unconventional too. The annual NPC/CPPCC sessions are under way. News from the meetings hasn't changed market sentiments so far. It appears the meetings won't change market's assessment of the economic prospect either. After the cuts in RRR and interest rates in the past few months, we are probably in an observation period when the effects of the cuts are being watched and evaluated by the authorities before the next round of actions. While the government is not in action, the markets will likely move in the same direction of Jan and Feb.
